With a background in corporate accounting for entertainment companies, Adam Weirich understands the complex accounting & finance needs of organizations both large and small. As a former finance professional, Adam knows what it takes to be successful which allows him to provide his candidates with the best opportunities and his clients with the best talent they need to fill strategic positions.

Wanting to get his head out of spreadsheets and have a hand in improving careers and businesses, Adam transitioned to recruiting after spending eight years in the financial world. Adam began his recruiting career in 2015 as a Resource Manager for Robert Half. He later worked for a boutique staffing firm in California before moving to Lucas Group.

In 2019, Adam joined Lucas Group as a Senior Executive Search Consultant in the Accounting & Finance practice. He focuses on the recruitment of top-tier financial services and investment management professionals as well as portfolio company executives throughout Los Angeles and Southern California. In the finance services sector, he has executed a variety of assignments within private equity, investment banking and corporate finance.

Adam holds bachelor degrees in both Accounting and Finance from Northeastern University. He spends his free time enjoying the outdoors whether hiking with his dog, kayaking or taking advantage of the beach.
